The Cardinals are providing double the usual ushers and clearly posted “peanut-safe section” signs to help optimize our safety. Everything will be cleaned and disinfected. Permanent ushers will be stationed in the section and they will be trained on how to take care of an emergency quickly and to handle anyone who violates the no-peanut rule. There will also be emergency medical personnel nearby. In addition to the precautions the Cardinals are taking, we would also ask that everyone try to steer clear of nacho cheese, ice cream and anything extra messy that is one of the top 8 allergens. Hot dogs, burgers, and foods of that nature should be fine as long as everyone keeps their hands to themselves. Even better...eat before the game to save money!
